‘Two deep breaths and that was it’

Witness describes horror of seeing man plummet to death

By Ben Carlson
News staff

Chris Evans was curious. A volunteer with Lawrenceburg Fire and Rescue, Evans was looking out of a side window while working at the Five Star convenience store to watch workers cut the top of a large tree behind a home on Plum Drive when the unimaginable happened. Evans said he saw a Townsend Tree Service worker cut the top of the tree while co-workers on the ground used a rope to pull the treetop away as it fell. That’s when things went horribly wrong, Evans said. “The tree came back and hit the remaining part of the tree,” Evans said several hours later. See HORROR, Page A2

Fair, horse show starts Saturday

Annual event features laser tag, ATV races

From staff reports

After 141 years, the annual Lawrenceburg Fair and Horse Show is still going strong, and ready to offer a week of laser tag, carnival rides, championship horse shows, mud races, pageants and more for 2013. The 2013 Lawrenceburg Fair and Horse Show, sponsored by the American Legion and Auxiliary Unit 34, will kick off on Saturday, June 22 and end Sunday, June 23. See FAIR, Page A2

Relay for Life begins Friday night

From staff reports

Anderson County Relay for Life wants $1 million. They’ll get a $1 million to be donated for cancer research, but they need the community’s help. The 12th Anderson County Relay for Life fundraiser will be held this Friday, June 21 starting at 6 p.m. until Saturday, June 22 at 6 a.m. in the city park. Relay for Life chairman Derek Ruble said via e-mail that if Anderson County Relay for Life raises $1 million, they’ll get a $1 million to be donated for cancer research, but they need the community’s help. ## ‘Operable’ grenade found near school

State police say device lacked explosives, not likely directed at Phoenix Academy

By Ben Carlson
News staff

The last thing middle school football coach Brian Holloman expected to see Monday when he pulled into the Phoenix Academy parking lot was a grenade. But when he got out of his truck, that’s exactly what he saw and it didn’t take long for him to call for help. “That’s the closest I’ve ever been to a grenade,” said Holloman. “I really wasn’t scared. In my mind I was thinking is this real or a toy. “Once I realized what it was, my next step was to call someone.”

Know who did it?

The Kentucky State Police continues to investigate a grenade in the Phoenix Academy parking lot. Anyone with information is asked to call Detective Ben Wolcott at 502-227-2221. Callers can remain anonymous.

That someone was Lawrenceburg Police officer Joe Saunier, one of the school district’s resource officers. “I asked him to come and check it out,” Holloman said. Saunier and a host of other officers did just that, along with the Kentucky State Police’s hazardous materials team. See GRENAD, Page A18

Parents face thousands in fines over missed school days

Couple hauled into court after child absent, tardy 29 times during recent school year

From staff reports

The parents of an Anderson County public school student are facing fines in excess of $7,000 because their child missed too much school in the past year. Darren Hockensmith, 41, and Charlot Hockensmith, 42, of 1141 Versailles Road, Lot 14, Lawrenceburg are scheduled to be arraigned Thursday in Anderson District Court on a summons that claims their child had 29 unexcused absences or tardies during the recent school year, according to documents on file in the Anderson Circuit Court clerk’s office. This marks their second offense, according to court documents, and means they could be fined as much as $250 for each time their child was absent or tardy without an excuse. First offenses carry fines as high as $100 per occurrence. Third offenses can be charged as criminal misdemeanors and carry potential jail time. The summons contends that the Hockensmiths “failed to send the child to school and did not provide proper excuses when the child was absent.” The child was enrolled part of the school year in Woodford County, and racked up nine unexcused absences and four unexcused tardies, according to the summons. Since being enrolled in Anderson County, the child accumulated 10 unexcused absences and six unexcused tardies. The summons said the school paid a “home visit” and issued a final notice to the parents March 13. Students receive one warning after they rack up three unexcused absences. When they reach six, they are placed in a truancy diversion program, Director of Student Services Derek Shouse said in an interview with The Anderson News about the district’s chronic absenteeism rate.

Two hit-and-runs are two too many

Owner not sure Fox Creek Road home still worth saving after being hit twice

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

James Davis picked up a few leftover pieces of a Chevy truck off the grass. The broken plastic will join the rest of the property owner’s burgeoning collection: vehicles that have crashed into his house at 2046 Fox Creek Road. The first hit-and-run accident, which occurred November 2012, left an estimated thousands of dollars in damage to Davis’ property, he said, and Davis doesn’t have insurance on the residence to pay for repairs. So he’s been paying for repairs out of pocket — physically installing drywall and leveling the house himself when he gets the chance. “I’d been putting up pillars in this house,” Davis said, pointing out the foundation’s concrete blocks and pillars. later. "The next thing you knew all of it came down, including the victim."

The victim was Ramiro Rosario Gomez, 36, of Danville who plummeted 30 feet to his death and landed on a chain link fence as Evans and about a half dozen of Gomez' co-workers watched in horror.

Evans said he grabbed his two-way radio and bolted across Plum Street to help Gomez.

"I hopped the fence and tried to get EMS personnel as much information as possible," Evans said. "There was no response from the victim when I got there."

There was no movement, his eyes were rolled back in his head and he had blood coming from his mouth.

"He took two deep breaths and that was it."

First responders with Lawrenceburg Fire and Rescue and Anderson County EMS arrived and immediately began trying to resuscitate Gomez. That effort lasted about 15 minutes before Gomez was loaded into an ambulance and transported to Frankfort Regional Medical Center where he was pronounced dead.

After his body was moved from the scene, Gomez' safety equipment, including a helmet and what appeared to be a safety harness, laid beneath the tree, along with a chainsaw and at least two ropes.

Franklin County Coroner Will Harold said an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death was scheduled for Tuesday morning. He said Gomez' next of kin had been notified, and that it appeared he had been living for a short period of time in Danville.

No other family information was immediately available.

Indiana-based Townsend Tree Service has been highly visible in Lawrenceburg over the past several weeks, removing a number of large trees on Broadway and Main Street for Kentucky Utilities.

John Roselle, marketing and business development director for Townsend Tree Service, said the company is investigating the incident and could not make any comments as of Monday afternoon.

A spokesperson for Kentucky Utilities confirmed that Gomez was a contractor doing work for the company.

"This is an unfortunate situation and we want to express our sympathies," a spokesperson said.

Later Monday afternoon, a group of Townsend employees appeared to be investigating the incident, along with an employee of the federal agency, OSHA.

The Townsend employees said they could not make any comments at that time.

HIT, RUN

motioning to peer through the window at walls ready for paint.

Davis lives right behind this house he's been fixing into a home. He wants to live there when it is finished, he said.

But Davis didn't even see or hear the Chevy pick-up truck collide with the house Sunday afternoon as the vehicle lost control travelling east on Fox Creek Road.

It crashed into the corner of the residence, leaving behind burgundy streaks on the gray siding.

The neighbor living next door to Davis' property, Jimmy Ritchey, heard the vehicle hit the house and said he got a good look for about a minute at the pick-up truck — a burgundy Chevy pick-up truck with an extended cab, the back right taillight dragging on the ground and a large dent from driver's side to rear tire.

But not enough time to get a complete license plate number before the driver took off, Ritchey said

Not even a year has passed since the first hit-and-run accident that damaged his property, Davis said.

Back in November 2012, a Chevy Tahoe — driven by then 20-year-old John Ivey of Aaron Barnett Road — spun 180 degrees and hit Davis' house.

Ivey allegedly fled the scene and officers apprehended him about 45 minutes later.

Ivey was charged with 139 counts of possession of a legend drug and leaving the scene of an accident. He is scheduled to be in Anderson County District Court June 19 for a pre-trial conference hearing for charges relating to the November incident.

This second crash, however, may have done more damage structurally, Davis said.

"It threw this house forwards," Davis said, adding that the force of the crash shifted the foundation of the home west to east.

According to Davis, Kentucky State Police and the Anderson County Sheriff's Office were called to the scene Sunday afternoon.

"I do have a lead on an individual," Deputy Brian Wooldridge of the Anderson County Sheriff's Office said Tuesday morning.

According to Wooldridge, the suspect of the second hit-and-run was scheduled to meet with Wooldridge at the sheriff's office on Tuesday.

While Davis and Ritchey were speaking with the police, another vehicle stopped short and ran off the rain-slick Fox Creek Road right in front of the turn to Anderson City Road, Davis said.

Which didn't surprise Davis, who's lived in the Fox Creek area for more than 15 years, or Ritchey, who lives in his home with his five kids for more than six months.

The second hit-and-run accident didn't surprise his neighbor Ritchey either.

"It literally shook the walls in our house out here," he said of last Sunday's accident. "It was that loud."

Part of the problem, they said, is that drivers fly down Fox Creek Road in the morning and at the end of the workday.

Ritchey said he still lets his children play in the yard, but off to side away from the traffic. Even so, Ritchey has had a neighbor request that his children play in her yard to keep them away from the road.

"I'm scared to death," Ritchey, whose youngest daughter is 9, said. "It gets bad. I can't hardly sit on my front porch swing."

Ritchey said he spoke this past winter with the state maintenance garage about putting up guardrails or wood fence post with chains in that section of Fox Creek Road.

Davis agrees that guardrails would help, or perhaps better enforcement of the 35 mile per hour speed limit.

But that's not going to repair his property.

And at this point, Davis said he's not sure if the residence is damaged to the point of being condemned.

He's not sure if 2046 Fox Creek Road is still worth fixing.

"I don't know," Davis said.

"I'm so disgusted, I don't know what to do with it."

This photo is proof positive that Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway had to cheat to dunk Ben Carlson during an event to raise funds for an ailing Little League player.

Want to shut me up? Here's your chance

Cheating judge-executive, rubber-armed PVA not likely to show up at Relay for Life dunking booth

Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway will probably have to cheat. Again. Brian Stivers, the property value administrator who couldn't hit the ocean from a boat, probably won't even bother to show up, not after his embarrassing rubber-armed performance last time. In fact, I'd be more worried about getting dunked by bunch of 5-year-olds who got cut from a pee wee league team than Stivers or Conway, neither of whom could dunk me the last time I sat in a dunking booth for a good cause. All kidding aside, both were incredibly generous that evening, as were Sheriff Troy Young (he cheated, too), County Attorney Bobbi Jo Lewis (she threw like a girl) and hundreds of others who genuinely wanted to help.

In fact, I'd be more worried about getting dunked by bunch of 5-year-olds who got cut from a pee wee league team than (PVA Brian) Stivers or (Judge-Executive John Wayne) Conway, neither of whom could dunk me the last time I sat in a dunking booth for a good cause.

Ben Carlson
Publisher

They, and more importantly you, will get another chance to dunk me Friday during Relay for Life, when I (and hopefully a few others) will sit in a dunking booth starting at 6 p.m. I sat in a dunking booth a couple of years ago during the Fair and Horse Show to help raise money for an ailing Little Leaguer. I ran my big mouth the entire time, taunting friends and foes alike with a variety of provocative signs and smack talk that almost always earned me a trip into the water. Not that everyone needed a taunt. There was no shortage of grudge-carrying people who took great pleasure in dunking me, and more than a few who paid their dollar and opted to fog balls directly at the cage, hoping one would pass through and become lodged in my big mouth.

Battered, bruised and missing a toenail that was torn off when it clipped the side of the tank, I was nevertheless happy to have helped raise hundreds of dollars for that child but vowed I'd never again sit in a dunking booth.

That all changed when I found out that Cindy Peterson, a fellow Anderson County Chamber of Commerce director, was stricken with cancer.

A young mom from a terrific family, Cindy and I got to know each other while serving on the chamber board.

Headstrong, outspoken and compassionate all at the same time, Cindy has a passion to make Anderson County a better place to live while at the same time holding those in charge accountable for their actions.

That's my kind of person, and I was sincerely angry when I found out she was ill.

We've seemingly all been touched by that nasty disease — my mom and wife are both survivors — and during a chamber board meeting I mentioned that with one of our own battling cancer, the chamber ought to consider sponsoring a booth during Friday's Relay for Life.

Fellow directors readily agreed and it wasn't long before it was decided we'd have a dunking booth and I'd be the main attraction.

To be clear, the money raised Friday night doesn't directly benefit Cindy or her family, but it will help in the fight to cure this dreaded disease.

Like me or loathe me, please stop by Friday and visit the chamber booth, along with the dozens of other booths set up by teams bent on helping their loved ones, and yours, who are suffering from cancer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tired of school system, local government dumping on us

To the editor:

For the past few years while reading The Anderson News and Anderson County politics, I've got angry, just shook my head and made a few comments on Facebook about our so called government.

During the last election, I will have to say that [editor] Ben Carlson WAS NOT my favorite person, but since the election I have really enjoyed his editorials, mainly because the truth hurts.

Last week's editorial should win him an award, especially if you live in Anderson County and pay taxes.

After reading The Anderson News for the past two weeks, I decided it's time to say something it's time the citizens of Anderson County speak out about our school system and our government issues.

As I drive by the health department on one of my few days off, I notice the parking lot is empty. Hmm. Why wasn't the previous health department big enough?

I'm sure more people visit our nice new sheriff's office- than visit the health department, and the sheriff seems to have plenty of room.

I really don't have much to say about the library except that we do need more room. Maybe [the library board of trustees] could have used the old ECC building to expand — you know, the one the school board more or less gave away [to the Christian school].

Now I understand that the taxpayers are paying rent to the Christian school for the school board's mistake. I'm not putting down the Christian school; if I had school-age children and could afford it, that is where I would send them.) Besides, that school now has lots of room to grow.

Here's an idea: Maybe our school board could rent more space from the Christian school since the new Early Childhood Center it build doesn't have enough room.

Good planning, school board.

Maybe the school board should find out why so many parents are home schooling their children. The school system is losing $3,600 a day — 200 home schooled children at $18 a day.

So now the school board needs to collect an additional $200,000 in taxes, but is creating a job — "director of district-wide programs" or whatever — and are going to pay this person $100,000 a year, including benefits.

Something seems a little too shady for me.

I hope the increase in taxes isn't needed now, Ms. School Board, since you found an additional $100,000 already for a job that no one knew anything about until The Anderson News published it.

I plan to be at the next school tax increase meeting and hope to recruit an army to go with me.

Then I read a headline in this week's paper, "No more free dumping," and find out the fiscal court is going to start charging for dropping off trash, etc., at 5 cents a pound.

Look out, Harry Wise and Gilbert's Creek [roads] because the fiscal court will have to hire guards to watch over those roads because people can't afford this.

But that's not all. The fiscal court is going to buy a $55,000 scale and pay someone to take the money for the garbage at $30,000 a year, including benefits.

By the way, taxpayers have paid $300,000 for a recycling building. The fiscal court could have rented Woodford County's recycling center — they just went broke.

Last but not least, did you notice in this week's paper the school board collected $7.577 million dollars in taxes for 2012? You need to read this — the library got $ 1.193 million!

This is on the same page where the fiscal court announces no more free dump-

The citizens of Anderson County are the ones being dumped on!

Instead of building swimming pool here, join effort in Franklin County

To the editor:

Now that the talk of making the dream of a swimming pool a possible reality in Anderson County has begun again, I'd like to offer a citizen's suggestion related to our county needing a facility to provide activities for both our children and adults.

Most of us would agree that our county is in dire need of a facility that would provide a place for youth to hang out and spend time with friends, and most of us would prefer that their activities be of a healthy nature.

Adults complain about not having anywhere to congregate in Lawrenceburg to enjoy friendships and companionships in a healthy way.

The answer to the needs/wants of children, teens and adults in Anderson County might be readily available if our local governments, both city and county, would investigate the vision of Swim Play Frankfort.

This vision of creating a family recreation center for both indoor and outdoor activities for all of Franklin County is being foreseen as an excellent way to use the talents of many sources to bring about increased tourism, improved economic attractions and more pride of everyone involved.

Although the Swim Play Frankfort project is in its early stages, there are sound ideas being developed for the wellness/recreational facility as a public/private partnership. The proposed project includes an outdoor water park and sand volleyball courts, along with indoor activities that include swimming, basketball, volleyball, archery, tennis and soccer all under roof.

Franklin County Fiscal Court has already allotted $500,000 toward installing the facility. It's been proposed to establish a non-profit corporation to build operate and maintain the center.

The best part of the project for Anderson Countians is the center's location. Several have been proposed, and one is along US 127 between I-64 and the Anderson/Franklin County line. How great that will be for those of us who have longed so much for this type of facility in Anderson County?

Since Anderson County government thinks that we can't afford a public swimming pool, why don't our community leaders consult with the founders of Swim Play Frankfort, as well as the leaders of Frankfort and Franklin County, about joining or becoming a partner in the planning that's underway across the county line? There may be a way for our residents to enjoy the proposed family recreation center at a reasonable cost while some of the profit the center may create is sent our way.

Collaborating with our neighbors in other counties with visions for projects to improve the way we live, work and play couldn't hurt. Without visioning, goal setting, researching, brainstorming and seeking out options to improve our lives, Anderson County will continue to remain stagnant in growth and prosperity.

Swim Play Frankfort is an interesting project that will provide much fun upon completion. I'm guessing it will be available for our use long before we get that public pool. For more information and status of the Frankfort proposed project, go to <http://www.swimplayfrankfort.org>.

Dance to light of super-silvery moon

Besides the warm weather, do you know what I love most about summer? It's the most colorful time of the year. Everywhere I look, whether it's in the wild or around the lawn, beautiful blooms abound.

Here on the farm, I have a bumper crop of hairy vetch and honeysuckle. That beautiful purple spire of the hairy vetch sets off the yellow and cream blooms of the honeysuckle covering the banks. As the heat and humidity rise, the scent of the blooms fill the air. I love summer, and it's almost here.

Summer officially arrives this Friday, June 21. Even if I didn't have a calendar, I could tell the date just by watching for one wildflower, the orange day lily that dots the roadsides. The wooly blue violets come next, followed close behind by lavender field thistle and the white umbrellas of Queen Anne's Lace. All spread among a hundred shades of green and all provided by Mother Nature. Add to that, your own green thumb gallery and we have a masterpiece of color for months.

On Sunday, June 23 at exactly 7:30 a.m., the full moon officially arrives, but I'm going to enjoy it Saturday night. And I hope you'll join me. Anywhere you are on Saturday night, please take some time outside to look at what is known as the full Rose Moon or full Strawberry Moon. This month it is also a super-moon, meaning that it will be closer to earth than any other time of the year.

The moon, Earth and the sun will all be aligned, with the Earth in between. It

All.”

E-mails are the dreaded drudgery of most of our work lives, but sometimes, in golden glimpses, good things come in e-mailed attachments.

Here’s a few highlights from my electronic mailbag of the good, the surprising and the weird that came across my desk in the last couple weeks:

$50 well spent

Someone from the Relay for Life camp e-mailed me last week about a Ward third grader named Audrey Tracy.

Audrey used her own Christmas money, about $50 in total, to purchase pet supplies and toys for a Relay for Life basket to be raffled at Friday’s event in the city park.

The 8-year-old wasn’t sure when she had the idea for the basket; her mother Claudette Tracy said it may have been shortly after their Chihuahua mix, Sandy, died.

Audrey — a lover of dogs, cats and birds — plans to attend Relay and bring her basket and a poster, decorated with magazine clippings of puppies poking their heads over white picket fences, cutout orange dogs and what looks to be one sparkly brown dachshund sticker.

When I came to take Audrey’s photo last Thursday, she hadn’t yet pasted the photos of her grandfathers, Ralph Jouitt Tracy and Claude Frank Waldrige, to the poster.

“I want to help people like my granddad and Papaw live a long, healthy life,” Audrey’s poster reads.

The late Ralph Jouitt Tracy died of esophageal cancer in 2008 when Audrey was 8 months old, her mother said.

Audrey’s other grandfather, Claude Frank Waldrige, survived a battle with prostate cancer and plans to be at the Relay for Life event.

So will Audrey and her family, mom Claudette said. After all, the city park is right behind their house on Aspen Drive.

Audrey wasn’t too talkative when I bombarded her with questions about her Relay for Life basket project (although I did find out she would love to have a turtle.)

Not that she needed to be. I think spending your saved-up Christmas money to raise funds for cancer research speaks for itself.

Audrey’s basket will be available at the Relay for Life event starting at 6 p.m. Friday in the city park.

Bid on it and raise funds for more birthdays.

Twins separated at birth?

Do you Google yourself? C’mon, it’s OK. We’re all friends here.

Most people (including myself) have searched for their own names in the search engine, looking for long lost twins on the other side of the world or an Internet record of your own achievements.

A few weeks ago, I received a rather interesting e-mail regarding an engagement announcement we had recently run in the newspaper.

Specifically, Nicole McQuilliam and John-Austin Jenkins, whose wedding is set to take place this Saturday.

Fiona McQuilliam-Jenkins lives in the United Kingdom.

She had been Googling herself, she said, and came across Nicole and John-Austin’s engagement announcement online.

“When I saw the story of the couple who got engaged I was amazed that we have exactly the same surname,” Fiona said in her e-mail. “In the UK, McQuilliam is a very rare name.”

What I think is the most peculiar: not only is Fiona’s last name McQuilliam (like the Harrodsburg bride-to-be Nicole McQuilliam), but Fiona also married into the Jenkins name.

Too weird. But a good weird.

I put Fiona in touch with the couple, and she gave me some interesting tidbits about the history of the McQuilliams (Normans, came over with William the Conqueror from France, eventually settled in Ireland and became a mercenary clan.)

Out of my own perverse curiosity, I Facebook messaged my Meaghan Downs doppelgangers — two women who share the exact first and last name as me.

Although I’m not sure if they’d respond,

Now, for the weird

As a reporter, I receive a mountain of weird press releases for gizmos and gadgets no one needs, obscure books no one wants to review, and ill-conceived television shows to critique. Nothing local, nothing Anderson County specific.

I usually delete those e-mails without much more than a quick skim for any possible Lawrenceburg connection.

But I did stop at this one.

“For generations, mysterious Appalachian monsters like Wolfman have spawned countless sightings,” the release reads. “Now, having spent a lifetime with the West Virginia wilderness as their home, hobby, and hunting ground, a band of hardcore hunters and trappers known as The Appalachian Investigators of Mysterious Sightings (AIMS) is at the ready to identify and snare these monsters in the hope of helping local mountain residents rest more easily.”

Who is this wolf monster that so terrifies the Wolfe County residents?

(I believe the Wolfe County referred to is the one located near the Natural Bridge State Park in Stanton. The release didn’t specify about locale.)

A 500 pound, 7-foot tall Wolfman.

Really. A Wolfman, According to the release, this is a new television show from Destination America that shows the AIMS team interviewing witnesses, collecting “solid” evidence of the Wolfman’s existence and building a customized trap large enough to “hopefully walk away with the beast itself.”

I know that this show is only trying to capitalize on the success of “Ghost Hunters” and “Finding Bigfoot,” but I feel my time is better spent focusing on other stories and articles that don’t involve half human-animal hybrids.

If anyone spots a centaur in the back roads of Anderson County, however, I’ll definitely be interested.

Just shoot me an e-mail.

SCOUTS GIVE OLD GLORY PROPER SENDOFF

Boy Scouts with Troop 37 retire an American flag last Friday evening at the Veterans’ Wall of Honor, located at the Healing Field. Learning the appropriate protocol to retire an American flag is often a requirement for boys in the first rank of Scouting, according to a troop leader. Troop 37 accepts donations of worn or unwanted American flags all year round, but tries to hold a retirement ceremony every year on Flag Day, June 14.

It will even have a super pull on the tides, rising them higher than any other time of the year. Those of us who are cops or teachers know the other effects of the full moon, primarily on people. Wacky behavior happens on a full moon night, but here’s the thing, it happens in plants, too. The moon offers a low light, compared to the sun’s high intensity light. This additional low light from a full moon actually intensifies flowering. Those that have grown flowers inside under lights know the effects of lengthening the hours of light, an abundance of blooms. A full moon has a similar effect. It affects the biorhythms of all living things. Pretty cool, huh? The additional hours of summer sun and full moon light will mean faster growth and all you have to do to find the proof is look at the weeds in your garden. I swear they grow faster than our vegetable plants. My schedule being what it is, I do most of my gardening on Sunday. I can spend hours weeding one Sunday with the anticipation of laying mulch the next, only to find myself weeding again. It makes for some very long Sundays. Most of you know that I like to try growing something different each summer. This summer it’s peanuts. My grandfather used to grow them, but I have never tried them in Kentucky. It should be interesting to watch and by late September I’ll be harvesting the little goobers.

Peanuts are grown underground and they actually provide more protein than many meats. They also offer fiber, vitamins, minerals and absolutely no cholesterol. How’s that for a healthy snack. You can eat them raw, roast them or spread them on some bread. The soil for peanuts needs to be loose and well draining. You plant them two inches deep and eight inches apart. Once the plant is up six inches, loosen the soil around the plant to make it easy for the tips to then burrow down into the ground. That’s where the peanuts will form. Once they’ve started that underground growth, mound more soil and then mulch the top of the soil with newspaper and straw. It takes about 100 days to harvest. Now, go see what new things you can find to grow this summer. It’ll add to the interest of the garden and hopefully add to the pantry shelves as well. Celebrate the summer solstice by growing something, picking something or just admiring something Mother Nature has served up on our plate. Take advantage of our “extended day” and dance in the light of the super silvery moon. Think of it this way, with all the other silly behavior going on that night, no one will think twice about what you’re doing out in the yard, so enjoy. Happy Growing.

COL. ROBERT LINWOOD HURST, 83
Col. Robert Linwood Hurst, 83, retired United States Air Force, died peacefully at his home June 12, 2013, in Houston, Texas.

Hurst

Bob was born on Jan. 22, 1930, on the family farm in Anderson County to Walter and Maymie Hurst. As a young man, he quickly learned the value of hard work living on the farm and this carried him throughout his life. After graduating from Western High School in 1948, he taught school for one year at the local one room school — the

Van Buren school. He ventured on to Western Kentucky University and then to Dayton, Ohio, to join the working world. With Wright Patterson AFB in town, the United States Air Force was Bob’s next endeavor and this would take him around the world. As he was never one to miss out on an adventure, he met his wife Jean on a blind date while stationed at Ellington AFB in Houston. They married three months later and off to Sacramento, Calif., they went. Bob quickly became a candidate for flight school/OCS and saw his first action as a navigator/bombardier in the Korean War. He went on to become a fighter pilot and flew many different aircraft. His overseas assignments included Japan where he flew the F-102. He flew his favorite aircraft, the RF-4 Phantom, in combat during the Vietnam War. While serving as the squadron commander at Webb AFB in Big Spring, Texas, the opportunity arose for the assignment to become the Air Attaché for the US Embassy in Sofia, Bulgaria. When that tour came to a successful conclusion, it was time to retire from the Air Force and relocate to Houston. After considering many options, he decided the insurance business was his to embrace and he signed his contracts with Farmers Insurance Group. Bob quickly grew his agency into one the most respected businesses in the area, earning many awards and accolades. Bob’s biggest hobby was being able to continue flying. He was excited to find a way to merge his love of flying and helping his fellow man through the Angel Flight program. He was able to help many people who needed to receive medical attention in a different city other than where they were. Bob is survived by his wife of 58 years, Jean; son Michael Hurst and wife Christina; son Brian Hurst; and son David Hurst and his wife Krissy and their three children Haleigh, Drew and Grace. Bob is also survived by one brother and his wife, John and Ann Hurst, as well their daughter Patricia Adelstein, her husband Jay and their two daughters Rose and Lily.

PAUL EDWARD DENNIS, 60
Paul Edward Dennis, 60, of Lawrenceburg, died Saturday, June 15, 2013, at Frankfort Regional Medical Center.

He was the son of the late Ezra Pete Dennis and Clara Belle Doss James. He was a glaze operator at Florida Tile in Lawrenceburg for 39 years. He is survived by his wife of 41 years, Goldie “PeeWee” Murphy Dennis, Lawrenceburg; son, Ezra Paul (Vickie) Dennis, Lawrenceburg; five brothers, James Earl Dennis, Lawrenceburg, James Dennis, Jesse James, Johnny James, Darren James, all of Frankfort, and a sister, Sharon White, Versailles; grandchildren, Justin Paul Dennis, and Kayla Renee Dennis, both of Frankfort; mother-in-law, Ida Murphy, Lawrenceburg. He was preceded in death by two brothers, Zeke Dennis, and Ezra Dennis Jr. Funeral services will be held Wednesday, June 19 at 1 p.m. at Gash Memorial Chapel with Bro. Eddie Leitch officiating. # Grandchildren learn about life on the farm

Youngs teach grandsons the value of hard work

By Bria Granville
News staff

Jimmy Young has been farming for over half his life and is now passing that knowledge on to his grandchildren.

When caring for their grandchildren Ethan Perry, 10, and Nathan Perry, 7, while their parents are at work, Mary-Anne Young said, she and Jimmy regularly bring them to help with everyday farm work.

By doing this, the boys learn the value of hard work and are able to make extra money to save for the things they want, Mary-Anne said.

"My family did it when I was young, and I decided to keep doing it cause I like what I do," Jimmy said.

Jimmy's grandsons said they have also caught the love of farming and hope to continue doing it as they grow older.

Ethan Perry, 10, poses before he begins working in the tobacco field.

The Youngs own their own farm, but lease the land near the river on Fox Creek Road where the tobacco can grow easier.

Nathan Perry hoes the field of tobacco as his grandfather Jimmy Young cultivates the field.

Nathan, 7, a grandson of Jimmy and Mary-Anne Young, takes a break from working while planting tobacco last week.

Mary-Anne Young rests with her grandsons Ethan and Nathan before plowing the tobacco field.

Library denies ‘unlawful taking,’ claims immunity

By Ben Carlson
News staff

The Anderson Public Library's board of trustees is denying nearly all of the allegations in a class action lawsuit filed last month that accuses it of "unlawful taking" and seeks hundreds of thousands of dollars in refunds to taxpayers.

The library's attorneys filed an answer to those allegations last week, claiming "sovereign immunity" against charges of conversion and unlawful taking.

The library also contends that the lawsuit cannot proceed as a class action lawsuit and that the plaintiff is barred from receiving a refund under Kentucky Revised Statute 134.590.

The suit, filed by Lawrenceburg resident Harold Todd in Anderson County Circuit Court on behalf of taxpayers, mirrors three suits filed against libraries in Kenton, Campbell and Boone counties.

Circuit judges in Kenton and

Campbell have already issued summary judgments in favor of taxpayers, but those rulings remain under appeal.

The suit filed here contends that the library's board of trustees has relied on House Bill 44 to set its tax rates instead of KRS 173.790, a statute that specifically governs how libraries formed by petition before 1984 are supposed to set tax rates.

No hearing date has been set in Anderson Circuit Court where Judge Charles Hickman is expected to hear arguments from both sides.

The library here was formed by petition in 1967 and approved by the Anderson County Fiscal Court, which issued an initial tax rate of 25 cents per $1,000 of assessed value.

The library's current tax rate is 86 cents per $1,000, which last year generated approximately $750,000 in revenue for the library.

A rate of 25 cents would generate about $218,000, meaning taxpayers would be owed a refund of about $530,000, according to the lawsuit.

KRS 173.790 requires library taxing districts to change tax rates only after securing the signatures of at least 51 percent of the number of people who voted in the previous election.

That petition would then have to be presented to and approved by the fiscal court.

That apparently has never been done despite the library being formed 46 years ago last month.

Libraries in northern Kentucky have argued that HB 44, created in 1979, is the controlling authority over their tax rates.

Brandon Voelker, an attorney from Cold Spring who has filed all four lawsuits, said that's simply not the case. He said KRS 173.790 existed long before HB 44.

"The word library never once appears in HB 44," Voelker said in a phone interview.

Voelker said KRS 173.90 was amended by the state legislature in 1984 — five years after HB 44 was created — but the legislature only modified it to state that it applies to libraries created by petition before 1984.

"If the legislature intended to repeal it, why did they strike some parts and not the entire law?" he said.

Circuit judges in Campbell and Kenton counties agreed when issuing their rulings earlier this year and forced libraries in those communities to revert back to their original tax rates.

There is no specific request for how many years' worth of refunds the lawsuit seeks. Voelker said the minimum number of years required under law is two. The maximum, he said, is five.

Here, two years would equal just over $1 million in refunds that would have to be returned to all property owners who paid the tax.

Five years could be closer to $2.5 million.

Council selects new Early Childhood Center principal

From staff reports

Janice Meredith will begin her new position in the district as the Ezra Sparrow Early Childhood Center principal starting July 1 for the 2013-14 school year.

According to Superintendent Sheila Mitchell, Meredith has 21 years of experience in the Anderson County School District in special education at the elementary and middle school levels, as well as experience in administration.

"I have had the privilege of working with the students, families, and staff of the Anderson County School District for the past 21 years," Meredith said in an e-mail. "I have worked at both Emma B. Ward Elementary and ACMS during my tenure and currently serve as an associate principal at Anderson County Middle School. I have previously taught special education at both levels, taught second and third grade at EBW, and served as the reading specialist at ACMS."

The ECC site-based decision-making council's selection on Monday, June 10 was unanimous, Mitchell said via e-mail.

The school district is still in the process of interviewing and vetting candidates for the position of Anderson County High School principal. The ACHS site-based decision-making council has chosen June 29 as a tentative date for announcing the new principal, according to Mitchell.

4-H program teaches children about rockets

By Bria Granville
News staff

As part of its 4-H summer fun program, the Anderson County extension office held a rocketry adventures class last Friday for children 9 and older.

Students were taught simple physics and aero science before putting their knowledge to work to create bottle rockets, which they launched later in the day.

Each student could individualize his or her own rocket once they were given simple materials that included duct tape, 2-liter bottles and sand to weigh the bottle down.

They could add propellers and fins to make their rockets fly differently.

"I worked really hard on this," Troy Knight, 10, who hopes to one day improve rockets, said. "The trickiest part was getting the fins this shape."

The camp gave students like Troy the chance to learn about rockets and do activities that would deepen their interest in the scientific field.

"I just love reading about rockets and airplanes and learning about them," Troy said.

Throughout the summer the 4-H program at the County Extension office provides varied day camps for students to participate in depending on their interests.

Torey Earle, a representative from the Kentucky 4-H science, engineering and technology program, helps Troy Knight, right, get his rocket ready for launch.

Hundreds line up for annual rabies clinic

By Bria Granville
News staff

For the past 30 years the Anderson County Humane Society has held its annual rabies vaccination clinic to give local residents a “cheap” and available opportunity to get a check up for their pets. Nearly 800 animals were signed in to be vaccinated Saturday, all of which were dogs and cats, according to Donna Callahan, director of the Anderson Humane Society. “It’s a great way to make sure animals are getting taken care of,” Melinda Owens, who brought her cat Gracie to get vaccinated, said. “We’re fortunate to have it in our area (Lawrenceburg) because the area we come from didn’t have it.”

Hundreds of Lawrenceburg residents showed up at the Anderson County community park for a chance to get their pets vaccinated on June 15.

Other zip codes and postmasters in Anderson County were: Alton Station, Mrs. Sue McGuffey, code 40301; Gee, Mrs. Mary Gillis, 40323; Sinai, Mrs. Ruth Hoskins, 40375.

The zip code process was to allow postal workers to glance only at the code to know the area to send the mail instead of reading complete addresses, speeding up the process by 24 hours.

Plan B pill ruling a victory for 'abortion industry'

Last week the U.S. Justice Department opted out of pursuing any legal action against the April ruling of District Judge Edward Korman that eradicated any age-restrictions on the purchase of Plan B Emergency Contraceptive, or the so-called "morning after" pill. Unsurprisingly, Planned Parenthood president Cecile Richards is quoted in an article on Politico.com as saying that this decision represented a "huge breakthrough for access to birth control and a historic moment for women's health and equity." I want you to notice how those in the abortion industry are framing this as an issue of "women's health and equality." Planned Parenthood wants this drug available to what they refer to as "women of all ages." Who do they consider a "woman?" Is she 18 years of age or older? Is she 12 years of age? Truth is they want this drug available to anyone who wishes to purchase it, whether they are a man or woman, a boy or a girl. They want your daughter to be able to walk into the local drug store and purchase this drug without your knowledge or consent. Aside from the possible medical dangers this drug could pose to anyone who takes it without advice from their doctor, there are moral implications as well. First, this makes it easier for adolescent boys, who are being taught by society that consequence-free sex is a rite of passage, to persuade their adolescent girlfriends that pre-marital sex is perfectly acceptable and safe; and in the event of an mishap, "just pop this pill; no one will ever know." Preventing pregnancy has now become as easy as treating a headache. Secondly, the parents have been effectively removed from being a part of the conversation. Not only does this move make Plan B available without the advice and prescription of a doctor, it allows this drug to be purchased by a minor without parental consent. This makes girls more vulnerable to male sexual predation; and it removes a God-ordained restraint to immoral behavior - "what would my parents think?" Simply put Planned Parenthood is against parenthood, at least in the biblical sense. But it cannot be laden with all the blame. It is a mere reflection of where our society is moving when it comes to the necessity of parental guidance. For years public schools have been teaching on what is the responsibility of parents to teach, sex education, devoid of any knowledge of God's design for sexuality and relationships. They are taught the mechanics of human sexuality without the purpose of human sexuality. They are taught how to make it "safe" instead to how to make it right. This latest development in the war for the souls of our children reveals the great need of parents to involve themselves deeply in the lives of their children. We cannot assume that our morals and values will rub off on them. If you are a Christian, you know that salvation does not come through osmosis, and neither does the knowledge of God's purpose for human sexuality. In Ephesians 6:4 we are given this admonition, "Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord." This includes having the difficult conversations, early and often. There isn't just the one "talk" we have when they turn 13; if you wait 'til then you have waited too long. We may not be able to stop the world from peddling its snake oil, but we can educate our children to recognize a snake in the grass when they see it.

Brian Owens

Calvinistic Theology, Part 5 Irresistible Grace

Calvinism teaches that man is saved by the irresistible grace of God. They teach that the Holy Spirit sends the elect a special inward call that brings them to salvation. Thus, the Holy Spirit irresistibly draws the sinner to Christ. They teach that the Holy Spirit operates directly and separate from God's word. Calvinism or Calvinists teach that his grace never fails to result in salvation. According to their belief the word of God is a "dead letter" until the Holy Spirit graciously causes one to willingly accept Christ.

The Bible teaches:

- The grace of God brings salvation to all (Titus 2:11).
  - Calvinism is limited -- God's word is for all.
- The gospel saves (1 Cor. 15:1-4; Romans 1:16-17).
  - Everything necessary to cause people to obey the gospel, live right and be saved eternally is found in the Gospel.
    - The Holy Spirit revealed God's word (John 14:26).
    - The sword of the Holy Spirit is God's word (Eph. 6:17; Heb. 4:12).
  - Man is saved by grace through Faith (Eph. 2:8).
  - Man may resist God's grace.
    - The only way the Holy Spirit draws the sinner to Christ is by the word of God.
      - If I refuse to hear and obey the word of God I am resisting the very thing that is able to save me.
    - It is true that God's grace has appeared to all men (Titus 2:11), yet salvation is conditioned upon one responding to God's word.

als unit who was able to determine that while real, the grenade contained no explosives.

"It was an operable device, but it was empty," said Detective Ben Wolcott. "There was no risk to anything in the area, but it was operable. I just didn't have any of the necessary powders to operate it efficiently."

The grenade was found just several feet from the entrance to the Phoenix Academy, the district's alternative school located on Industry Drive.

It appeared that it was thrown into the lot from Champions All Stars Cheerleading next door, where officers found the grenade's handle and firing pin.

Wolcott said there was no indication that the grenade was the intended target.

"I can't say that with any kind of certainty," he said. "It probably wasn't a specific target. There were several areas out there it could have been directed toward."

Still, Wolcott said, there is reason for concern.

"It is a concern and I'm going to continue to investigate this," he said, adding that he will have the device checked for fingerprints.

Holloman, the teacher, said finding a grenade in the parking lot concerned him, too.

"Obviously there are always concerns," he said. "From my perspective it makes me feel better that there weren't any kids in school ... that there were no students in there."

Forget the glitch! Stoops' magic has lit Big Blue fire

Reds should be team to beat in September

Amazing thoughts conjured up while dreaming of going back on vacation... That ground-shifting you thought you imagined Monday was real, even if it only lasted about 20 minutes.

In case you missed it - and really, there was no way you could have if you were somewhere in Kentucky on Monday afternoon - for a short time, Rivals.com had the University of Kentucky ranked as the best football recruiting class lined up for 2014. Repeat that. Kentucky. Best football class. 2014. No you did not need to check with an audiologist or an optometrist. To set the record straight, the internet recruiting service had a programming glitch that listed the Wildcats as No. 1 for a brief period. As it turns out, UK should have been ranked No. 2. Details, details.

No. 1? No. 2? Does that really matter at this point? Either one says times are a-changing in Lexington with Mark Stoops. The man came to Kentucky refusing to accept the long-held assumption that the Wildcats could not recruit on par with the big boys of the Southeastern Conference and Big 10. He's rejected the idea that UK would have to settle for second-tier recruits and hope to occasionally catch lightning in a bottle - see Cobb, Randall for details - just to go 8-4 or so.

Stoops undoubtedly went too far if reports are true that he offered a scholarship to a seventh-grader last week, but the fire he has lit under Kentucky football is something I have never seen before.

After Rivals fixed the glitch, Conner quarterback Drew Barker, who Anderson County fans saw as a sophomore in 2011, and who committed to UK in the spring, tweeted, "Well, being number one was sweet for the 20 minutes it lasted but trust me, big news is on the horizon and we will be back on top."

I'm not sure you could say UK has ever been on top in football. But that's all the more reason for Mark Stoops to work some more recruiting magic.

All-Star problems

I was sitting in a motel somewhere in western North Carolina when the news came that the Indiana boys' all-stars had defeated Kentucky, 114-60, Friday night in Louisville's Freedom Hall. At least the game was much closer - an 84-77 Indiana win - Saturday night in Indianapolis.

The girls' series was a split with Kentucky winning in Louisville and Indiana getting a payback at Bankers Life Fieldhouse.

It's really a shame that this once-grand series that has seen the likes of George McGinniss, Oscar Robertson, Wes Unseld and Rex Chapman suit up, is almost an afterthought now.

As a kid, I remember the hype. Some called it "The World Series of High School Basketball." The morning after Anderson County's Jimmy Dan Conner led Kentucky to a 110-91 win over Indiana in 1971, the lead story in The Courier-Journal was headlined, "Surprise! Kentucky creams 'em."

Last weekend, the news story was buried deep in the sports section.

I am not criticizing the state's largest daily newspaper. It is only reflecting the dwindling interest. For years, the series has prided itself in being real basketball and not a series of megastar-powered one-on-one contests.

Fans today, though, like the dunks and skills showcases. It's just a shame.

Then, there was the case of Kentucky all-stars Dominique Hawkins and Derek Willis, who will also be Kentucky Wildcats next season. It was reported they had full workouts in Lexington on Friday morning, then played in Louisville Friday night.

It's a trend that is really hurting the series.

Two years ago, when Anderson County's Glen Drury coached the

Whalen, Thompson strong on hill as Mudcats sweep West Jessamine

Older teams too much in Lindsey Wilson tournament

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

The Central Kentucky Mudcats swept a double-header from West Jessamine in 16-and-under summer baseball last Wednesday.

Daniel Whalen and Brett Thompson turned in strong pitching performances to lead the local team, made up largely of players from the Anderson County High School team. The Mudcats took the opener 10-2, then came back for a 4-1 win in the nightcap of games played at Barnes Memorial Field.

In the first game, Whalen came on in relief of Tanner Walker with one out in the third inning to throw 3.2 hitless innings. Whalen and Walker combined for a one-hitter, but Mudcat coach Chris Copenhaver said Walker had some control problems and Whalen issued a walk and hit a batter. Whalen also had three strikeouts.

"I thought Whalen did a great job coming in to relieve Tanner," Copenhaver said. "Overall, Whalen had a heck of a game for us."

Whalen also had a hit and a sacrifice bunt and drove in two runs.

Josh Brown, shown pitching for the Anderson County Bearcats in May, has had a big start in summer baseball for the Central Kentucky Mudcats.

Chris Sea went 2-for-4 with a double, while Josh Brown tripled for the Mudcats. Jacob Brown also had a hit for the locals.

In the second game,

Thompson threw four shutout innings, giving up one hit and striking out four. He did walk a batter. "He did a good job recovering from a rocky first start this summer but he still battled some control issues. However, I was proud of the way he worked through some

Hunters: prepare summer archery checklist

By Art Lander, Jr.
Ky. Dept. of Fish & Wildlife Resources

June is the halfway point on the calendar and is highlighted by the longest day of the year: the official start of summer on Friday, June 21 this year.

For Kentucky's 90,000 plus archery deer hunters, the Summer Solstice seems to trigger another seasonal phenomenon - the need to get ready for the upcoming hunting season.

Kentucky's 136-day archery deer season opens in late summer, this year 15 days before the first day of fall. The season dates are Sept. 7, 2013 through Jan. 20, 2014.

The signs are everywhere across rural Kentucky that deer season is not that far off: mast is beginning to grow on trees in the woods, fields are lush with clover and tall grass. Deer fawns are becoming more visible and bucks are growing back their antlers with renewed vigor. When deer season opens, deer will still be in their summer pattern and highly visible while feeding late in the day in fields.

For avid archery hunters, it's never too early to think deer. Late June is a good time to get organized by checking out equipment and adding new accessories. Start practicing, even if it's been months since the last hunt of last season.

For archers who don't shoot year-round, here's a checklist to study in preparation for the upcoming season.

Take your hunting bow to a trusted technician now and have it checked out, top to bottom, especially the bow string. "Most people wait until it's too late," said Tommy Downey, owner of 4-D Archery in Henry County. "The string may look okay, but it may be weakened under the center serving (where the arrow nock is attached)."

Downey said bow strings can also stretch over time and hundreds of shots. "That gets the bow out of tune, so that it shoots erratically and inconsistently."

If you plan to change vital equipment, don't wait, do it now.

"For most people it takes about a month to adjust to a new arrow rest or bow sight," said Downey. "It takes longer than you would think to sight in your bow when there's been a change in equipment."

Inspect arrows carefully. Make sure they are straight and free of cracks. Replace damaged fletching or nocks and be certain that the weight of your field points (practice points) are the same weight as your hunting broadheads. Set aside one broadhead for practice. As opening day of archery deer season approaches, sight in your bow with your practice broadhead.

When you start practicing, take it slow. "Don't shoot too many arrows at first," said Downey. "Ease into it."

Older archers might consider turning down the poundage or the draw weight of their compound bows and just shoot a few arrows a day, to build muscles back up.

Sloppy practice is bad practice, even in the beginning. Concentrate. Get back into the rhythm of archery.

When the season opens and you draw on that first deer, your mind and body should be on auto-pilot. Archery is part mental, part muscle memory. Be ready.

ON TO ST. LOUIS

The Anderson County Middle School archery team placed third in the nation in the National Archery in the Schools Program competition, held in Louisville on May 10. They had also finished second in the state competition. The team will participate in the NASP World Tournament, to be held in St. Louis, Mo., the last week of June. Members of the seventh-grade archery team, above, are, front row, from left: Hunter Snow, J. Tyler Herzog, Sarah Rosenthal, Maura Dean, Hannah Rosenthal, Taylor Cook, Kenny Cirillo and Mason Kirby. Back row: Tyler Hawkins, Alexandria Sutherland, Logan Burus, Cody Mobley, Jonathan Kinny, Shelby Heightchew, Tanner Miller, Anna Rose and Jacoby Wiley. Absent from photo: Hayden Elder, Clay Jenkins and Andrew Peach. Members of the eighth-grade team, below, are, front row, from left: Kelsey Stophrer, Kenzie Trent, Nicolas Bailey, Casey Meredith, Vanessa Sivils, Caroline Davis, Christine Hostetler, Tiffani Estes, Brandon Asher, Kaylee Snow and Tucker Austin. tough spots and got the win for us.” Wesley Jorette worked the final two innings to pick up the save, striking out three but giving up an unearned run.

Thompson also delivered the big hit, a two-out double in the bottom of the fifth to drive in two and stretch the Mudcat lead to 4-1.

“Overall, it was a good day picking up the two wins but I thought our pitching still gave up too many free bases with walks,” Copenhagen said.

Older teams roll over Mudcats at Lindsey Wilson

Three teams made up largely of older players whipped the Mudcats at Lindsey Wilson College over the weekend. Elite Baseball of Ohio rolled to an 11-1 win while At the Yard, from Cincinnati, pounded the Mudcats 11-0. In the finale, the Bruins of Elizabethtown, put up an 8-4 win.

“Overall, I was pleased with the boys and their effort,” Copenhagen said. “This was an 18- and 19-and-under tournament, so we knew it was not going to be easy when we signed up for it. I thought they did a very good job against some very good baseball teams.”

The loss to Elite Baseball might be misleading as the score was 5-1 going into the bottom of the sixth. Josh Brown had given up just two earned runs in five innings, but the Ohio team erupted, capitalizing on six Mudcat errors.

Jacob Brown smacked a double for the Mudcats.

At the Yard simply overpowered the Mudcats on its way to a tournament championship. The local team collected just one hit, a fifth-inning double from Thompson.

Against the Bruins, a team largely made up of Central Hardin High School players who had won back-to-back state championships before losing in the semi-finals this year, Mason Baker gave up three earned runs in five innings before giving way to Brown. “I was very proud of Mason and the way he pitched against a very strong program,” Copenhagen said. “He showed me a lot working through various defensive mistakes.”

Thompson again led the offense with a double and 3 RBI.

Previously unreported games

The Mudcats opened the summer season on June 5 with a 5-1 win over the Morse Mustangs, of Danville, at the home field.

Walker pitched five innings giving up one earned run on two hits while fanning seven. Josh Brown came on in the sixth and struck out two more to slam the door.

At the plate, Brown was 2-for-2 with a walk. He doubled and had two RBI.

In the second game of June 5, the Morse Mustangs came back for a 7-5 win. Thompson took the loss, giving up five runs in three innings, but brought the Mudcats back with a 3-run home run in the fourth, to highlight a four-run rally by the Mudcats.

On June 9, the Mudcats suffered a 9-3 loss to the Bluegrass Buzz in the second game of a double-header at Barnes Field. In the first game, the teams fought to a 2-2 tie before the game was called due to an expiration of time.

Heading into their own tournament this weekend at Barnes Memorial Field, the Mudcats stand at 3-5-1 for the summer.

TOURNEY RUNNER-UP

The Central Kentucky Batcats' 12-and-under softball team placed second in tournaments the last two weekends. The team finished as runner-up in the Future Stars Tournament, held in Harrodsburg on June 8-9. The Batcats then placed second in the Summer Slugfest 2013, also in Harrodsburg, on Sunday. Team members are, front row, from left: Peyton Rose, Elissa Akers, Carmen Holt, Mackenzie Burkhead, Emily Jordan and Taylor Brown. Back row: Chay Hayes, Kelsey Sutherland, Jenni Beasley, Makayla Chesser, Ashlynn Dearinger and Jacyllynn Ruble.

SEASON AND TOURNAMENT CHAMPS

To be fair, Louisville signee Zach Price, who is now transferring, played for Drury the same year.

Still, it looks like something could be worked out. I just can't agree with any college encouraging kids to miss a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

Hopefully, something can be worked out in the future.

Louisville baseball

Even with a brief stay in the College World Series, Louisville baseball is to be commended for making the big show for the second time.

The Cardinals overcame quite a bit, then rallied to beat Vanderbilt, in Nashville at that, to make the trip to Omaha. It is an achievement that, in my book, is even more impressive than the Sugar Bowl win over Florida.

In baseball, a team has to win a double-elimination tournament. The super-regional was played away from Louisville. And in navigating the bracket, Louisville had to knock off some of the established programs in the sport.

It's been said that teams in middle America can't be consistently good. The weather is too bad and unpredictable. Recruiting is unwinnable. It can't be done.

Tell that to Louisville. Kudos to the Cards.

Reds still in good shape

Think expectations were high in Reds' Country this year?

Cincinnati, of course, was a trendy pick to make the World Series. As I type this column, the Reds are 42-28, playing .600 baseball, but a large number of fans are wringing their hands.

The reason? The Reds are still in second place, 2.5 games behind St. Louis.

There are legitimate reasons for concern, of course. The bullpen, other than Aroldis Chapman, has been very shaky and injuries nag.

But it says here that, come September, barring any more major injuries, the Reds will be the team to beat.

From June 10-13 boys from second through eighth grades enjoyed a fun and intense time learning the rules of the game of football.

"It's a great time to work with our young ones on the fundamentals of football and have fun," Coach Mark Peach, head coach of the Anderson County High School football team, said.

This year the camp has 50 campers with 10 players on the high school football team assisting as coaches.

"They get excited about the high school guys, because that's who they see on Friday nights," Peach said.

LEGAL NOTICES

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE
In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, June 27, 2013, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts herein-after set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

(2) PLEASE NOTE: The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes, whether current or delinquent.

(3) Easements, restrictions, stipulations and agreements of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office. Assessments for public improvements levied against the property, any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose and any and all planning and zoning regulations imposed upon the subject property.

(4) Where the real estate has insurable improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner or the appropriate Plaintiff. Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder as the successful bidder's cost.

(5) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

NOTICE OF PRELIMINARY PERMIT APPLICATION ACCEPTED FOR FILING

(May 16, 2013)

On January 1, 2013, FFP Project 115, LLC filed an application for a preliminary permit, pursuant to section 4(f) of the Federal Power Act (FPA), proposing to study the feasibility of a hydropower project at the Kentucky River Lock and Dam #5 located on the Kentucky River near the town of Tyrone in Anderson and Woodford Counties, Kentucky. The sole purpose of a preliminary permit, if issued, is to grant the permit holder priority to file a license application during the permit term. A preliminary permit does not authorize the permit holder to perform any land-disturbing activities or otherwise enter upon lands or waters owned by others without the owners' express permission.

The proposed project would consist of the following: (1) a 594-foot-long, 36-foot-high timber dam; (2) a reservoir with a surface area of 730 acres and a storage capacity of 17,390 acre-feet; (3) a 480-foot-long, 100-foot-wide intake channel with a 100-foot-long retaining wall; (4) a 260-foot-long fixed crest dam extension connecting the existing dam to the new powerhouse; (5) a 150-foot-long, 100-foot-wide powerhouse containing two generating units with a total capacity of 9.3 megawatts; (6) a 280-foot-long, 180-foot-wide tailrace with a 110-foot-long retaining wall; (7) a 4.16/69 kilo-Volt (kV) substation; (8) a 1.0-mile-long access road; (9) a 0.9-mile-long, 69 kV transmission line. The project would have an average annual generation of 39,500 megawatt-hours.

HOROSCOPES

Drum rol please, Capricorn. Months and months of hard work finally pay off, and you receive praise all around. A game at home results in victory.

Transportation issues take precedence this week. The options are numerous, but only one is right for you, Aries. A relative could use some advice.

CANCER

What a charmer you are, Cancer. You can be dazzling when you need to be, and your supervisor will be counting on that at a meeting. Do not disappoint.

LIBRA

Let go, Libra. Your need to be in control is starting to impede the progress on a project at work. Step aside and give the reins to someone more qualified.

The chain of command at work begins to break down, and you're left to figure a situation out on your own. Relax, Aquarius. You know what you're doing.

Training opportunities abound. You must seize them, Taurus, if you hope to advance. A change in vacation plans turns out to be a blessing in disguise.

Get your game face on, Leo. The competition at home is heating up. A myriad of offers come your way. Not all are on the up-and-up. Choose carefully.

SCORPIO

Stand back, Scorpio. There's a new sheriff in town. Listen up and fly right. A tickle of the ivories gets the party started. Dreams of old return.

Love has taken a back seat to work for far too long, Pisces. Make a change for the better and your relationship will flourish. A long paperwork trail tests patience.

Giddy is the word for you these days, Gemini. Life is full of possibilities, and you're boiling over with excitement. Share it with a friend down on their luck.

Investment opportunities are plentiful, and the time is ripe. You could always use some extra cash, Virgo. You pass a test at work with flying colors.

Ready, Sagittarius?
You better be. Your family is counting on you to turn a situation around. Your fitness routine could use a shakeup. Look to a friend for help.
